

What Are the 10 Global Competencies?

Profile of a Global Leader

As students engage in global learning, they develop a combination of attitudes, skills, and knowledge that demonstrate 10 core competencies. These competencies empower learners to pay attention to the world, feel connected, and take action to make it a better place.

Understanding of global issues

I understand the causes, impacts, and connections between issues like poverty, health, and hunger.

Self-awareness

I reflect on the people and experiences that have made me who I am.

Curiosity

I genuinely want to learn about the world.

Critical thinking

I can solve tough problems.

Intercultural understanding

I know that culture is a way of life that connects people and that cultures have differences and similarities all over the world.

Communication

I can understand and express myself with different kinds of people.

Valuing differences

I learn from people who are different from me.

Empathy

I can see things from other people's perspectives.

Global connection

I am part of a larger world and am responsible for it.

Flexibility

I can adapt and learn from mistakes.